Firecracker users are very likely to recommend the product to other students with an average rating of 8.6 and an NPS of +42.

During this time students use at least four (4.4) online prep resources for USMLE Step 1.

Medical students spend an average of 55.5 hours a week studying for the USMLE Step 1 over the course of roughly 20 weeks (19.7).

37% of students reported using Firecracker to prep for the USMLE Step 1.

Firecracker users are much more likely to score 250+ than non-users (25% vs. 8%).

On average, Firecracker users reported higher USMLE Step 1 scores than non-users (234 vs. 227) and also higher than the average scores of first-time takers (229).

In fact, Firecracker users were much more likely to score 250+ than non-users (25% vs. 8%).

Based on data collected during AMSA Student Survey completed December 2018 and Firecracker Efficacy Study completed January 2019 by Wolters Kluwer.